AID IN RECOVERY OF CHILD

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 22.— (UP)—Formal charges of kidnap-ing were placed against Charles Sharp and his wife, Edna, today in connection with the disappearance last Friday of four-year-old Doris Virginia Murphy.

At the same time police announced that a grilling had "completely shaken" the story of Mrs.
Sharp of the circumstances in which she came into possession of Doris.

(Copyright, 1929, by United Press)

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Little Doris Virginia Murphy, missing a week ago today, was back at home this morning, safe and unharmed in her mother's arms.

"It's her—my baby," screamed the almost hysterical mother, making a positive identification when the child was returned to the Murphy home by representatives of the United Press and the San Francisco News.

"Thank God she is safe," sobbed the mother. The child was also crying, although smiling through her tears, happy to be back home again after a week's absence.

The finding of the child was kept secret from the public until a positive identification, and only that of her mother could be considered as positive, and only a few persons were present at the happy reunion of the mother and child.

These included Edward Sharp and his wife, who brought the child to the United Press offices early today, a few newspaper men and police officers.

Those who talked to the child were convinced that she was indeed the "Doris Virginia" who has occasioned the greatest police search ever known on the Pacific coast.

The little girl, apparently unmolested and extremely happy, was brought to the offices of the United Press by Edward Sharp, who told police and newspapermen a story unique in the annals of criminology.

Sharp said that his wife had received a mysterious note telling her that a child of hers, whom she had placed in an orphan's home several years ago, would be returned to her if she would come to Vallejo, a city on San Francisco Bay near here.

Sharp told the United Press and the News that his wife had gone to Vallejo and had taken the child from a "dark man with a black moustache."

Believing that little Doris was her own child, Mrs. Sharp had returned to San Francisco and had taken the child on several shopping tours with her.

It was not until the husband had noticed the resemblance of "his daughter" to the pictures printed in daily newspapers that the slightest question of doubt regarding identity of the child was raised.

Sharp and his wife held a hurried consultation. Since the woman had not seen her daughter for more than a year, she was not positive that the little girl was hers.

They brought the child to the United Press offices and told the strange story of the mysterious note and the journey to Vallejo.

When first told that her daughter had been found, Mrs. Murphy refused to believe the report and hysterically cried, "Oh, God, why torment me?"

Despite the admission of the husband and wife that they had received the mysterious note and obtained the child from the "dark complexioned man with the black moustache," police were not satisfied with the apparent solution of the case.

It was pointed out that authorship of four mysterious, threatening notes signed "K. K." had not been established and that there were suspicious angles still unsolved concerning the disappearance of the child.

CENTER ON ONE MAN AS CAUSE OF MASSACRE

ALL THEORIES AS TO WHO KILL-ED 7 GANGSTERS FADE INTO BACKGROUND

CHICAGO BELIEVES IT NEARS SOLUTION OF WHOLESALE MURDERS

(Copyright, 1929, by United Press) Chicago, Feb. 22.—All theories as to who killed seven gangsters in a machine gun massacre here a week ago faded into the background as the beer war picture today as city and county authorities secretly concentrated all resources on finding one man they believe responsible for the entire affair.

Behind the mass murders, according to good authority, appears the probability of dissension in the ranks of the George "Bugs" Moran "mob" running back to the days more than two years ago when federal authorities closed a west side brewery owned by Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, former twin kings of the beer racket.

The multi-millionaire Lake-Drug-gan combine had a working agreement with the Moranites to furnish them with beer. When the brewery was raided the individual who was running it was arrested.

The Lakes, Druggans and Moran-ites agreed that he should "take the rap," in other words that he should stand trial and if necessary go to prison for the sins of his fellows.

This he did, with the usual promises from his superiors in the racket that he would be paid well for the lost time.

A little more than a month ago, the man who "took the rap" was released from Leavenworth penitentiary. He came back to Chicago to collect the money he had been promised—$30,000.

Unfortunately for him, he arrived at a time when the federal government was on the verge of cleaning out the whole north side organization which Moran heads.

Conditions when this man returned made it a poor time to collect $30,000 from Moran. He was put off several times and according to present information decided upon revenge in his own way.

The ex-convict is said to have carried his lament to two former policemen, who at about the same time the brewery was raided had been "double crossed" by Moran and subsequently indicted for violation of the prohibition law.

This explanation takes into account the report that two members of the firing squad in the North Clark street garage wore police uniforms.

Police believe the other members of the killing gang may have been recruited from disgruntled members of the Moran gang or from his enemies.

SPANISH WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO QUINTUPLETS

Valledolid, Spain, Feb. 22.—(UP)— Sofia Hernandez, who gave birth yesterday to quintuplets at a hospital here, has been married seven years and has borne children seven times, once having twins, making a total of 12. The quintuplets died immediately after birth.

Professor Isidro Villa, of the medical faculty, said this was the first case of quintuplet birth in Spain and that such cases occur once out of 40,000,000 times.

Forming Largest Bank In World With Capital $2,000,000,000 in New York City Today

MERGE TRUST COMPANY AND NATIONAL BANK

ENORMITY OF ENTERPRISE IN-DICATED BY COM-PARISONS

FINANCIAL EXPERTS POINT OUT MERGER WILL BE IDEAL ONE

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Formation of the largest bank in the world, with resources of $2,000,000-000, will be announced Monday, the United Press learned definitely today.

The bank will be formed through merger of the Guaranty Trust Company and the National Bank of Commerce. Only a few details of the merger remain to be worked out.

The enormity of the enterprise is illustrated by comparison with the other great banking institutions of the world, some of which, with the amount of their resources, follow: Midland Bank, Ltd., of England, $1,860,379,094; Lloyds Bank Ltd., of England, $1,693,576,131; and the three other "billion dollar" banks of the United States—the National City Bank of New York, the Chase National, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago.

At the end of last year the Guaranty Trust Company had resources of $1,052,211,198 and the latest statement issued by the National Bank of Commerce shows resources of $934,302,599.

Financial experts pointed out today that the merger would be an ideal one.

The Guaranty Company will contribute its vast trust business and the National Bank of Commerce will bring to the merger its large commercial banking business.

POSSE OF MOUNTED MEN SEARCH DESERT FOR 11 YEAR BOY

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—(UP)—In the wilderness of the Mojave desert, to the north of Quail Springs, a posse of 100 mounted men today pressed their hunt for 11-year-old Richard Grant of Los Angeles and
Harry Palmer, his alleged ab-ductor. Young Grant was taken from his home by Palmer, his father's discharged employe, late in December, ostensibly to go to a party in Long Beach. He was not seen until this week when residents of near Quail Springs
reported him in that district.

REP. CELLAR, WET, ADVOCATES DEATH PENALTY

PROHIBITIONISTS"

Washington, Feb. 22.—(UP)—
Rep. Cellar, wet, New York democrat, announced today that if the Jones prohibition penalty bill passed the house he would introduce a bill imposing a death penalty on liquor law violators. His proposed resolution reads:

"That, whereas, in order to make punishment of prohibition violations as barbarous and hideous as possible, and

"Furthermore, to satisfy the fanatical cruelty of the professional prohibitionists who are apparently
drunk with power,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that wherever penalties are prescribed in criminal prosecutions, by the national prohibition act for the illegal manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of intoxicating liquors, the penalty imposed for any such offense shall be death by hanging, the body to be cut down while alive and the accused disemboweled, his head cut off,

HOOVER PONDER OVER SELECTION OF HIS CABINET

DEFINITE

Washington, Feb. 22.—President-elect Hoover celebrated the birthday of the first president of the United States by devoting a large part of the day to consideration of the unsolved problems which still confront him, chiefly selection of his cabinet, not yet fully made up.

Due to hitches of one sort and another recently, there are some few places indefinite. The United Press learned today, however, that the following four men have been selected definitely and have accepted portfolios:

Secretary of state — Henry L.

Stimson, New York.

Secretary of treasury — Andrew

W. Mellon, Pittsburgh.

Secretary of interior — Dr. Ray

Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland

Stanford University.

Secretary of navy — Charles Francis Adams, Boston, lawyer, officer in numerous corporations and treasurer of Harvard University.

An inquiry discloses his choice
for postmaster general now lies between two men who took prominent parts in the Hoover campaign, Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, Hoover
Ohio primary campaign manager, and James W. Good, of Chicago, a director in the Hoover pre-convention campaign and western campaign manager.

Two other men are regarded almost certain for the cabinet, but
the positions they will fill are indefinite. They are Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and close friend of Hoover and member of the Dawes reparations commission,
and William J. Donovan, assistant attorney-general.

Donovan will not be attorney general. The attorney generalship is one of Mr. Hoover's chief worries since Senator Borah of Idaho declined the post.

Minneapolis, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Alderman Frank E. Giebelhain, indicted with other aldermen and business men for alleged graft following an investigation by the Hennepin county grand jury will be brought to trial here Monday. At the same time Fred A. Maurer, also a councilman will be sentenced to imprisonment, fined, or both, following his guilty

London, Feb. 22.—(UP)—The government is prepared to pay compensation awards to the Irish roy-alists in full, Premier Stanley Baldwin announced in the house of commons today.

The announcement was the aftermath of the embarrassing situation in the house Tuesday, when the government escaped defeat
only when Baldwin hastily reversed the position of his chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, on compensation for the royalists for losses during the Sinn Fein rioting.

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE TAKES A TOUR

BUS LOAD SPEND WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY IN NORTH PART
OF STATE

TION WITH EXAMINING SHIP-
STEAD-NEWTON BILL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Feb. 22.—With a bus load of Minnesota legislators spending Washington's birthday on a tour of the northern part of the state, the senate and house rested today following completion of the seventh week of the present biennial session.

There was a great deal of speculation on the purpose of the bus tour which began following the passage
in the senate on a resolution memorializing congress to pass the Ship-stead-Newton bill, but thus far today the real purpose of the pilgrimage was a secret.

Senators and representatives, most
of whom were of the farmer-labor party, declared the trip was "just a holiday" and had nothing to do with the boundary water dispute nor any other legislation now under consideration.

The solons were to visit Virginia, Eveleveth and other range towns and perhaps return on Sunday.

The resolution on the Shipstead-
Newton bill, which provides for federal regulation of boundary waters
and forests to preserve their natural beauty, was passed by a vote of 46
to 6 after three amendments introduced by northern senators had been defeated.

Senators Adams, Duluth; McKenzie, Gaylord, and others sought to gain passage of amendments which would restrict the area covered by the Shipstead-Newton bill but their efforts met with defeat.

After four hours of debate Senator
Frank E. Putnam, Blue Earth, senior member of the senate, threw cold water on the fight when he said the resolution was a perfectly harmless measure which gave the senators
"an opportunity to stage one of our biennial blow-offs."

The house is expected to take up a similar resolution next week.

Meanwhile the affairs of the rural credits bureau were drawn into the limelight again when Senator Chas.
A. Hauser, St. Paul, pointed out a $2,250,000 discrepancy between the published reports of the bureau and the state auditor's office on the total outstanding bonds and certificates
of indebtedness.

The state auditor's report showed,
Hauser said that the bonds and certificates totalled $52,500,000 while the bureau reported the same items at $50,250,000.

Sen. Hauser introduced a resolution which asked that a check be made to learn which of the two was right.

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—A new series of political broadcasts,
"Half Hours with the Senate,"
will be inaugurated tonight at 10:30 p. m. eastern time, the National Broadcasting company announced today. The first program will have as speakers Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, who will discuss some of the problems facing congress.

OF SNOW

PENNSYLVANIA

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—The eastern seaboard, from Portland to the northern edge of Florida, was digging itself out of the worst snow storm of the season today.

Spreading out of Cape Hatteras came a low barometric pressure yesterday. It penetrated as far south as Nashville where the snow was 15 inches deep. With the snow came cold weather, driving the mercury
as low as 25 degrees below zero in parts of Pennsylvania.

Steamship service was interrupted,
three persons lost their lives in the metropolitan area; trolley service
was discontinued in several cities;
and thousands of unemployed were given a chance to earn money shoveling snow.

Temperatures and weather conditions in various sections of the east and south were as follows:

New York—Eight inches of snow
and a minimum temperature of 22.
Concord, N. H.—Five below zero
and a heavy snowfall.

Crawford county, Pa.—25 below
zero.

Nashville, Tenn.—15 inches of snow.

Philadelphia—Eight inches of snow and a minimum temperature of 20 degrees.

New Haven, Conn.—Four inches
of snow.

New York, Feb. 22.—The eastern seaboard states utilized the Washington's birthday holiday today in digging itself out from the worst snow storm of the winter and in checking the damage.

Eight deaths were attributed to the storm: three in New York's metropolitan area, two in Boston, one in Philadelphia and two in Reading.

As the sun smiled genially over
the snow blanketed states today the low barometric area which centered
yesterday in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras was whirling out over the sea lanes of the Atlantic taking with

AWAIT TRACTORS TO BREAK ROAD TO WYOMING VILLAGE

Rock Springs, Wyo., Feb. 22.—(UP)— Huddled around small fires in the Red desert, forty men and women
today awaited the coming of tractors to release them from their snow-prison.

The men and their wives engaged in building a gas pipe line, were travelling by truck and trailer from the Baxter basin when drifts made progress impossible. They pitched camp and prepared to await relief.
An airplane flew over them yesterday and dropped provisions.

Word of their plight reached Rock Springs after anxiety was caused when they became hours overdue
and aid was asked of Salt Lake City.
day morning carrying 1,600
pounds of food.

Tractors started from here with supplies and were expected to break through today.

The marooned workers have been

Tokio, Feb. 22.—(UP)—The Japanese government was censured by the house of peers by a vote of 172 to 149
today.

The censure was an aftermath of the affair of May, 1928, when the government was accused of bringing the emperor into politics in connection with his imperial message to the diet.

The situation was uncertain after
the vote was cast, but it was suggested if the peers refused to approve the cabinet's budget, the cabinet
might be forced to resign.

ert, to the north of Quail Springs,
a posse of 100 mounted men today
pressed their hunt for 11-year-old Richard Grant of Los Angeles and
Harry Palmer, his alleged ab-
ductor. Young Grant was taken from his home by Palmer, his
father's discharged employe, late
in December, ostensibly to go to
not seen until this week when
reported him in that district.

REP. CELLAR, WET, ADVOCATES DEATH PENALTY

PROHIBITIONISTS"

Washington, Feb. 22.—(UP)—
Rep. Cellar, wet, New York democrat, announced today that if the Jones prohibition penalty bill passed
the house he would introduce a bill
imposing a death penalty on liquor law violators. His proposed resolution reads:

"That, whereas, in order to make
punishment of prohibition violations
as barbarous and hideous as possible, and

"Furthermore, to satisfy the fanatical cruelty of the professional prohibitionists who are apparently
drunk with power,

"Therefore, be it resolved, that
wherever penalties are prescribed in
criminal prosecutions, by the national prohibition act for the illegal
manufacture, sale, transportation,
importation or exportation of intoxicating liquors, the penalty imposed for any such offense shall be

HOOVER PONDER OVER SELECTION OF HIS CABINET

DEFINITE

Washington, Feb. 22.—President-elect Hoover celebrated the birthday of the first president of the United States by devoting a large part of
the day to consideration of the unsolved problems which still con-
front him, chiefly selection of his cabinet, not yet fully made up.

Due to hitches of one sort and an-
other recently, there are some few places indefinite. The United Press
learned today, however, that the following four men have been selected
definitely and have accepted portfolios:

Secretary of state — Henry L.
Stimson, New York.

Secretary of treasury — Andrew
W. Mellon, Pittsburgh.

Secretary of interior — Dr. Ray
Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland
Stanford University.

Secretary of navy — Charles Francis Adams, Boston, lawyer, officer in numerous corporations and treasurer
of Harvard University.

for postmaster general now lies between two men who took prominent
ter F. Brown, of Toledo, Hoover
Ohio primary campaign manager,
and James W. Good, of Chicago, a director in the Hoover pre-convention campaign and western campaign manager.

Two other men are regarded almost certain for the cabinet, but
definite. They are Henry M. Robin-
friend of Hoover and member of
and William J. Donovan, assistant attorney-general.

Donovan will not be attorney general. The attorney generalship is one of Mr. Hoover's chief worries
clined the post.

Minneapolis, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Alderman Frank E. Glebehnain, indicted with other aldermen and business men for alleged graft following an investigation by the Hennepin county grand jury will be brought to trial here Monday. At the same time
Fred A. Maurer, also a councilman
will be sentenced to imprisonment,
fined, or both, following his guilty

London, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—The government is prepared to pay compensation awards to the Irish roy-alists in full, Premier Stanley Baldwin announced in the house
of commons today.

The announcement was the aftermath of the embarrassing situation in the house Tuesday, when
the government escaped defeat
only when Baldwin hastily reversed the position of his chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill, on compensation for the
royalists for losses during the Sinn Fein rioting.

OF STATE

TION WITH EXAMINING SHIP-

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Paul, Feb. 22.—With a bus
load of Minnesota legislators spending Washington's birthday on a tour
of the northern part of the state, the
senate and house rested today following completion of the seventh
week of the present biennial session.

There was a great deal of speculation on the purpose of the bus tour
which began following the passage
in the senate on a resolution memorializing congress to pass the Ship-
stead-Newton bill, but thus far to-
age was a secret.

Senators and representatives, most
of whom were of the farmer-labor
holiday" and had nothing to do with
the boundary water dispute nor any other legislation now under consideration.

The solons were to visit Virginia, Eveleveth and other range towns and
perhaps return on Sunday.

The resolution on the Shipstead-
Newton bill, which provides for federal regulation of boundary waters
and forests to preserve their natural
beauty, was passed by a vote of 46
to 6 after three amendments introduced by northern senators had been defeated.

Senators Adams, Duluth; McKenzie, Gaylord, and others sought to
would restrict the area covered by
efforts met with defeat.

Frank E. Putnam, Blue Earth, senior member of the senate, threw cold
water on the fight when he said the
measure which gave the senators
"an opportunity to stage one of our biennial blow-offs."

The house is expected to take up
a similar resolution next week.

credits bureau were drawn into the
limelight again when Senator Chas.
A. Hausler, St. Paul, pointed out a $2,250,000 discrepancy between the
published reports of the bureau and
the state auditor's office on the total
outstanding bonds and certificates
of indebtedness.

The state auditor's report showed,
Hausler said that the bonds and certificates totalled $52,500,000 while
the bureau reported the same items
at $50,250,000.

Sen. Hausler introduced a resolution which asked that a check be
right.

New York, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—A
new series of political broadcasts,
"Half Hours with the Senate,"
will be inaugurated tonight at 10:30 p. m. eastern time, the National Broadcasting company announced today. The first program will have as speakers Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, who will discuss some of the
problems facing congress.

OF SNOW

PENNSYLVANIA

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Th-eastern seaboard, from Portland to
the northern edge of Florida, was
digging itself out of the worst snow

Spreading out of Cape Hatteras came a low barometric pressure yesterday. It penetrated as far south as Nashville where the snow was 15
inches deep. With the snow came
parts of Pennsylvania.

three persons lost their lives in the
metropolitan area; trolley service
was discontinued in several cities;
and thousands of unemployed were
given a chance to earn money
shoveling snow.

Temperatures and weather conditions in various sections of the east
and south were as follows:

and a minimum temperature of 22.
Concord, N. H.—Five below zero
and a heavy snowfall.

Crawford county, Pa.—25 below
zero.

Nashville, Tenn.—15 inches of
snow.

Philadelphia—Eight inches of
of 20 degrees.

of snow.

New York, Feb. 22.—The eastern
seaboard states utilized the Washington's birthday holiday today in digging itself out from the worst
snow storm of the winter and in
checking the damage.

Eight deaths were attributed to
the storm: three in New York's
metropolitan area, two in Boston,
Reading.

the snow blanketed states today the
low barometric area which centered
yesterday in the vicinity of Cape
sea lanes of the Atlantic taking with

Rock Springs, Wyo., Feb. 22.—(U.P.)
—Huddled around small fires in the Red desert, forty men and women
today awaited the coming of tractors
to release them from their snow-
prison.

The men and their wives engaged
the Baxter basin when drifts made progress impossible. They pitched
camp and prepared to await relief.
An airplane flew over them yesterday and dropped provisions.

Word of their plight reached Rock Springs after anxiety was caused
when they became hours overdue
and aid was asked of Salt Lake City.
day morning carrying 1,600
pounds of food.

Tractors started from here with supplies and were expected to break through today.

The marooned workers have been

Tokio, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—The Japanese
government was censured by the house of peers by a vote of 172 to 149
today.

The censure was an aftermath of
the affair of May, 1928, when the government was accused of bringing the
emperor into politics in connection
with his imperial message to the diet.

The situation was uncertain after
the vote was cast, but it was suggested if the peers refused to approve
the cabinet's budget, the cabinet
might be forced to resign.

WASHINGTON'S MOMENTOUS BIRTHDAY

AMERICA turns its attention today to George Washington. This Friday will be the 140th anniversary of that birthday of Washington's which fell in the period of his career perhaps most momentous of all for American history, says the St. Paul Dispatch in an illuminating editorial, giving sidelights on the character and achievements of the Father of his Country.

In February of 1789, as Washington was approaching his 57th birthday in retirement at Mount Vernon, great events were shaping themselves. In a few weeks the new Constitution, which was to bind the colonies finally into the United States, was to go into effect; a new Federal government was to be created; the first Congress was about to assemble at New York and receive the name of the first President from the first electoral college.

Five years previously Washington had presented his resignation as commander of the Colonial army to Congress, in session at Annapolis. "Having finished the work assigned me," he wrote from Mount Vernon, "I retire from the great theater of action." But as he waited for February 22 in 1789 he knew that his retirement was nearing an end. In the thirteen states presidential electors had been chosen at an election held on the first Wednesday in January and, though news traveled slowly in those days, he was aware that he must soon leave his quiet home to assume the burdens and honors of first President of the United States.

Circumstances gave him a brief reprieve and permitted him to remain on his beloved farm until April 16, or more than a month after the date fixed for his inauguration, March 4. Congress had chosen New York as the National capital. But there was no hall or assembly rooms suitable for such an important event. The City Hall, on the corner of Nassau and Wall streets, where the United States Treasury building now stands, was old and out of repair. The city would do nothing for the treasury was out of funds and Congress had only empty coffers. Public spirit came to the rescue. The merchants and business men of New York subscribed $32,500 to repair and refit the old building. But so extensive were the changes necessary that when March 4 arrived an army of carpenters and plasterers were still at work, and save for the salutes of guns at noon and evening and the clangor of church bells, there was no sign that the new government of the United States had come into being. Congress was slow in assembling. Bad roads and long distances to travel by stage-wagon and on horseback delayed the arrival of members to the session of Congress requisite to count the electoral vote and declare the first President elected.

Down at Mount Vernon the President-elect exercised his great virtue, patience. He was not ambitious or in haste to take the reins of power. The outer man exhibited the carriage and posture of an aristocrat but the inner man remained unvaryingly democratic. His life at Mount Vernon revealed him as he was. His habits were uniform. On this birthday anniversary, as on other days, he rose before the sun and worked in his study, writing or reading until breakfast. After breakfast he rode on horseback over the farm giving directions for the day. Returning to his study, he remained to dispatch business or receive visitors until 3 o'clock, when dinner was served. The remainder of the day and evening was spent in recreation until 10 at night, when he retired to rest.

From this routine he seldom varied. He complained only of two annoyances, both peculiarly American. One was the persistence of painters and sculptors to have him sit for them. Today he would be avoiding news and movie photographers. The other was the number of letters of a strange nature he was compelled to answer. These he described as inquiries as to old matters with which he had nothing to do, applications which often could not be complied with, inquiries which would require a historian to answer, letters of compliment as unmeaning as they were troublesome. These he answered in his own hand until, wearied, he employed a young college man to act as his amanuensis.

Men have remarked how easily he dropped into the ways of peace. That, too, was an American characteristic. The Civil war and the World war gathered up and let loose millions of men which in other times might have brought turbulence with their return. Yet they fell swiftly and easily into peaceful pursuits, turning like the first Commander in Chief of American arms from war to industry without hesitancy. The proverb, "The child is father of the man," is true of nations. The first Americans and the latest seem to have like traits, and the First American was the Father of the Nation.

LEGION-AUXILIARY SONG CONTEST

THE American Legion-Auxiliary song contest is attracting much interest throughout Minnesota. The general rules indicate that the song shall embody the ideals of the American Legion and its Auxiliary and shall be of and for Minnesota. It shall be written in march tempo. The contest is open to any present or former resident of the state of Minnesota.

The contest shall not be confined to members of the Legion and Auxiliary. The contest shall be divided into two parts, text and composition. A cash prize of $100 will be awarded, the amount to be equally divided between the winners of the text and musical composition. If no text or composition is judged worthy, then the joint Music Committee of Legion and Auxiliary shall continue the contest the following year. The Minnesota personnel of this committee has a local representative, A. C. Mraz.

The song chosen as the official song shall become the property of the Gopher Legion and Auxiliary jointly, reserving royalty rights for the winners of texts and musical compositions. Each text and each composition must not bear any mark of identification and must be accompanied by a separate enclosure, containing the name and address of the contestant.

The texts must be original and shall not exceed in length four verses and chorus. All texts must be in the hands of the Song Contest Editor, care of The American Legion, Old Capitol, St. Paul, on or before April 15, this year. The five best texts will be published and made available for the composition contest. Contest for the composition opens May 1, 1929, and closes June 30, 1929, when all entries must be in the hands of the Song Contest Editor, care of The American Legion, Old Capitol, St. Paul, on or before June 30, 1929. Compositions must be the best musical setting for one of the five winning texts and must be original.

Brainerd has musical talent. It also has poets to write the song texts. A popular song is usually composed by cooperation of song and text writers. That is how they "team up" in New York. It is a hard matter to wed words to music when the two writers work independently. If two can "team up" in Brainerd they ought to produce a good song and may win the prize.

Impatient Griselda

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE was secretly in love with Guinn Holden, handsome young Texas minister. But Guinn married Lilith, a beautiful, gay and coquettish blonde, who died a year later when the second Lilith was born. Irene then married Guinn, turning down Will Lundy, who was in love with her. For eighteen years she struggled valiantly as the wife of Holden to win his heart, but always she knew that he was really in love with the "white and gold" ghost of the dead Lilith. It was the grown-up Lilith, now out of college, beautiful as her mother had been, but selfish and cold, who succeeded to her mother's place in her father's heart. Tina, Ross, Lundy and Patricia, Irene's own children by Holden, were all secondary to the proud Lilith in everything in the parson's household. Tina wore her cast-off clothes at college and worked at home, while Lilith visited. When Lilith became engaged to Roger Devereaux, son of wealthy parents, Irene was happy. Tina, the Cinderella girl, would then have her chance. But when a parishioner dies leaving $2,000 to her father Lilith prevails upon him to let her postpone the wedding to have a year of vocal study in New York. Her letters told of her dreams come true—freedom, broadened horizons, the exhilaration of the great city that fascinated her. Then she met Vivien Winthrop, a beautiful rich society girl with "horse sense," at her music teacher's. Invited to dinner, Lilith captivates Mr. Winthrop, as well as the young men, with her negro songs, while she revels in the luxury of the palatial surroundings. Bill Chester, heir to a huge fortune, and engaged to an heiress, asks her to the opera a week later. Lilith is entranced.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.
A WEEK later she asked Vivien and Bill and Mr. Dickson to tea with her. A nuisance that the Deans would have to be included, but she must let these new acquaintances of hers know that she had suitable chaperonage. Tea was the only social gesture practicable for her under the circumstances, but she'd try to make it as attractive as she could. Ellen Dean had annexed a young man studying journalism at Columbia, a presentable and clever person, so he made an even number of young people.

The tea was a great success. Next time she'd contrive to have the Deans absent, now that they had been exhibited as guarantors of her respectability of background. The Winthrops gave an Easter house party at their country place on Long Island, and Lilith was invited. The question of clothes gave her burning anxiety, but she collected enough to serve for the occasion by cleaning and pressing her best old ones and by picking up some crafty bargains in the shops. And anyway, she reasoned, it wouldn't be consistent for Cinderella to be too handsomely gowned. Her line was to be beauty and simplicity, and artless enjoyment of everything these rich philanthropists were offering. . . . and eyes wide open for the glass slipper that might appear at any moment. Her eyes were blue and clear behind her dark lashes, and they saw much.

These eager eyes took in each detail of the house that seemed a palace to her. Her own bedroom was in lettuce green and orchid with French painted furniture and draperies in pastel shades, a perfect setting for a young girl, and just made to show off golden hair and peach-blossom skin. The bathroom of iridescent tiles, with delicate blue curtains and one exquisite water scene on the wall, with all the accessories that imagination could suggest, made a comic contrast in her mind with the one bathroom the parsonage, cluttered up with soiled clothes the children dropped (Mother never could teach them to be neat), the old tub rusted in spots, the floor sopping wet half the time, the walls splattered from the boys' energetic showers. Oh, it was beastly to be so poor you couldn't have beauty and ease in your daily life! Mother and Tina didn't seem to mind—or at least they didn't complain. But she had such longing for beauty that ugliness hurt her like a hair shirt.

Roger had money, compared to the parsonage standards. But now that she had glimpsed a life so different even from his, could she ever go back to what he could give her? Well, the year was still young. Maybe round the corner of some tomorrow the glass slipper might show up. . . . She arched her slender foot before her, admired its grace and smallness.

It was a big house party, chiefly of young people. Girls like a flock of chattering birds, gay of plumage, quick of motion, young men with sleek hair and boyish sophistication of manner, some handsome, but all looking as if they belonged to this leisured world of wealth. Since this was perhaps the pick of Vivien Winthrop's acquaintances they must all be worth while. Lilith reflected as she lightly studied them. She scanned each one with the watchful eagerness with which a young girl with a heart to let sees eligible young men, asking herself of them in turn, "Is he perhaps the one I've been waiting for? Can he give me romance and riches and love?"

A nobody from Texas was at such a disadvantage, with no chance to know the comparative bank accounts, the financial as well as social prospects. It was vulgar to think about money, much more so to speak of it, but a girl needed to know! What could she do? Well, keep her ears open for any slight hint which she might store in her memory as a squirrel tucks away nuts; be sure that she didn't put her eyes in her pocket.

She mustn't put herself forward in any way, mustn't antagonize these girls with rivalry; must be demure, appreciative, grateful—not too clever—not suggestive of danger to anyone else's plans. . . . Be Tina instead of Lilith for these few days, while the girls were watching her. Be Tina before the girls and maybe Lilith with the young men. A covey of girls like that could fly up and away if an outsider attracted their men too obviously.

She must beware. Everything had been so easy for her before, when it had come to winning men, that she perhaps was overconfident and might spoil her game. She must be canny and discreet, subtle while seeming naive. . . .

"My brains and looks and Tina's good little soul would make an irresistible combination. No?" she asked of her reflection in the mirror. She had a flashing mental picture of Tina as she would perhaps be at the moment—in one of her own made-over dresses, her fingers smudged with ink, her hair a boyish untidy rumple, digging over her books because it was her duty to study and make good grades. Some day she would give Tina the strict social discipline she needed, dress her to suit her own style, and bring her out to be a success. Tina had charm, but she had always been just part of the background for an older sister. It would be easy to be generous to Tina, when she had everything she wanted herself.

"I'm a born sybarite," she said to Bill Chester, as they strolled through the rock garden with its daisies, pansies, its artful waterfalls, its diversified pools when winter blues were, its plums of red where the gardener had planted the Alpine flowers that presently would be masses of color against the gray boulders.

She gave a quick wave of her hand. "All this seems like home to me. I'm sure I'm a changeling, and somewhere the parsonage daughter is luxuriating on a yacht in the Mediterranean."

"Some pumpkin will trundle you home one of these days and carry you away to the court." He smiled his easy, boyish smile, that would have made him attractive if he hadn't had a penny to his grandfather's name, she reflected. Think what a lot of pumpkins there are in the world, Cinderella.

"The ones that roll up to the parsonage are just that and nothing more," she said. Her blue eyes had suddenly a childish wistfulness in them. . . .

Perhaps it was with the thought of giving some pumpkin a turn in her direction that Bill Chester invited the party to a dinner at his grandfather's country house a few miles away. Most of them stayed over an extra day for the dinner. He didn't say that he was giving the dinner for her, and no one else entertained so much as a thought of that, but Lilith felt sure of it. A secret instinct told her, the magic sense that in the past had revealed to her much of young masculine emotion associated with her.

He did not place her beside him at dinner, but she told herself that might be because he wished to avoid comment. A young man so rich as he was had to be careful to avoid conjecture, especially when he was engaged. How lucky that Sally Burton was in Paris! Sally might have had a secret instinct, too, to set her on her guard.

The house was a marvelous marble structure filled with art treasures that even Lilith's inexperienced eyes told her might well be museum pieces.

She looked around at the treasures, and then at this young fellow who would one day possess them all, who seemed so boyish and blithely irresponsible, "tall and imperially slim," like Richard Corey. After dinner, when the other guests were entertaining themselves for a while, he took her through some of the rooms to show her a few special pictures.

"Grandfather is a good deal of a collector," he said. "I'll have to bone up more on all these things myself. I'm sinfully ignorant. He says I'm spoiled as the devil, and have never put my mind hard on anything." His smile was rueful, apologetic, yet mischievously sure of forgiveness.

"Things have come too easily for you!" she accused him. "But I'm the only child—blast the luck! And so I got the concentrated indulgence that should have been spread out over half a dozen kids."

"You've never tried being one of five on an income not big enough for a grasshopper. You've never had to decide whether you'd have a new hat, or music for the month."

"No, that's so. And yet there are disadvantages in my position, too. Mother and Grandad expect such a hell of a lot of me because I'm all they have."

"With your position, and your possibilities—you can do anything, be anything, have anything that you wish!" There was a touch of envy in her tone, that gave it passion, a flash of fire in her blue eyes, a sudden flush to her cheeks.

He looked at her strangely for an instant, and then lowered his eyes. "I wonder?" he said slowly.

WASHINGTON'S MOMENTOUS BIRTHDAY

AMERICA turns its attention today to George Washington. This Friday will be the 140th anniversary of that birthday of Washington's which fell in the period of his career perhaps most momentous of all for American history, says the St. Paul Dispatch in an illuminating editorial, giving delights on the character and achievements of the Father of his Country.

In February of 1789, as Washington was approaching his 57th birthday in retirement at Mount Vernon, great events were shaping themselves. In a few weeks the new Constitution, which was to bind the colonies finally into the United States, was to go into effect; a new Federal government was to be created; the first Congress was about to assemble at New York and receive the name of the first President from the first electoral college.

Five years previously Washington had presented his resignation as commander of the Colonial army to Congress, in session at Annapolis. "Having finished the work assigned me," he wrote from Mount Vernon, "I retire from the great theater of action." But as he waited for February 22 in 1789 he knew that his retirement was nearing an end. In the thirteen states presidential electors had been chosen at an election held on the first Wednesday in January and, though news traveled slowly in those days, he was aware that he must soon leave his quiet home to assume the burdens and honors of first President of the United States.

Circumstances gave him a brief reprieve and permitted him to remain on his beloved farm until April 16, or more than a month after the date fixed for his inauguration, March 4. Congress had chosen New York as the National capital. But there was no hall or assembly rooms suitable for such an important event. The City Hall, on the corner of Nassau and Wall streets, where the United States Treasury building now stands, was old and out of repair. The city would do nothing for the treasury was out of funds and Congress had only empty coffers. Public spirit came to the rescue. The merchants and business men of New York subscribed $32,500 to repair and refit the old building. But so extensive were the changes necessary that when March 4 arrived an army of carpenters and plasterers were still at work, and save for the salutes of guns at noon and evening and the clangor of church bells, there was no sign that the new government of the United States had come into being. Congress was slow in assembling. Bad roads and long distances to travel by stage-wagon and on horseback delayed the arrival of members to the session of Congress requisite to count the electoral vote and declare the first President elected.

Down at Mount Vernon the President-elect exercised his great virtue, patience. He was not ambitious or in haste to take the reins of power. The other man exhibited the carriage and posture of an aristocrat but the inner man remained unvaryingly democratic. His life at Mount Vernon revealed him as he was. His habits were uniform. On this birthday anniversary, as on other days, he rose before the sun and worked in his study, writing or reading until breakfast. After breakfast he rode on horseback over the farm giving directions for the day. Returning to his study, he remained to dispatch business or receive visitors until 3 o'clock, when dinner was served. The remainder of the day and evening was spent in recreation until 10 at night, when he retired to rest.

From this routine he seldom varied. He complained only of two annoyances, both peculiarly American. One was the persistence of painters and sculptors to have him sit for them. Today he would be avoiding news and movie photographers. The other was the number of letters of a strange nature he was compelled to answer. These he described as inquiries as to old matters with which he had nothing to do, applications which often could not be complied with, inquiries which would require a historian to answer, letters of compliment as unmeaning as they were troublesome. These he answered in his own hand until, wearied, he employed a young college man to act as his amanuensis.

Men have remarked how easily he dropped into the ways of peace. That, too, was an American characteristic. The Civil war and the World war gathered up and let loose millions of men which in other times might have brought turbulence with their return. Yet they fell swiftly and easily into peaceful pursuits, turning like the first Commander in Chief of American arms from war to industry without hesitancy. The proverb, "The child is father of the man," is true of nations. The first Americans and the latest seem to have like traits, and the first American was the Father of the Nation.

THE American Legion-Auxiliary song contest is attracting much interest throughout Minnesota. The general rules indicate that the song shall embody the ideals of the American Legion and its Auxiliary and shall be of and for Minnesota. It shall be written in march tempo. The contest is open to any present or former resident of the state of Minnesota.

The contest shall not be confined to members of the Legion and Auxiliary. The contest shall be divided into two parts, text and composition. A cash prize of $100 will be awarded, the amount to be equally divided between the winners of the text and musical composition. If no text or composition is judged worthy, then the joint Music Committee of Legion and Auxiliary shall continue the contest the following year. The Minnesota personnel of this committee has a local representative, A. C. Mraz.

The song chosen as the official song shall become the property of the Gopher Legion and Auxiliary jointly, reserving royalty rights for the winners of texts and musical compositions. Each text and each composition must not bear any mark of identification and must be accompanied by a separate enclosure, containing the name and address of the contestant.

The texts must be original and shall not exceed in length four verses and chorus. All texts must be in the hands of the Song Contest Editor, care of The American Legion, Old Capitol, St. Paul, on or before April 15, this year. The five best texts will be published and made available for the composition contest. Contest for the composition opens May 1, 1929, and closes June 30, 1929, when all entries must be in the hands of the Song Contest Editor, care of The American Legion, Old Capitol, St. Paul, on or before June 30, 1929. Compositions must be the best musical setting for one of the five winning texts and must be original.

Brainerd has musical talent. It also has poets to write the song texts. A popular song is usually composed by cooperation of song and text writers. That is how they "team up" in New York. It is a hard matter to wed words to music when the two writers work independently. If two can "team up" in Brainerd they ought to produce a good song and may win the prize.

Impatient Griselda

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE was secretly in love with Guinn Holden, handsome young Texas minister. But Guinn married Lilith, a beautiful, gay and coquettish blonde, who died a year later when the second Lilith was born. Irene then married Guinn, turning down Will Lundy, who was in love with her. For eighteen years she struggled valiantly as the wife of Holden to win his heart, but always she knew that he was really in love with the "white and gold" ghost of the dead Lilith. It was the grown-up Lilith, now out of college, beautiful as her mother had been, but selfish and cold, who succeeded to her mother's place in her father's heart. Tina, Ross, Lundy and Patricia, Irene's own children by Holden, were all secondary to the proud Lilith in everything in the parson's household. Tina wore her cast-off clothes at college and worked at home, while Lilith visited. When Lilith became engaged to Roger Devereaux, son of wealthy parents, Irene was happy. Tina, the Cinderella girl, would then have her chance. But when a parishioner dies leaving $2,000 to her father Lilith prevails upon him to let her postpone the wedding to have a year of vocal study in New York. Her letters told of her dreams come true—freedom, broadened horizons, the exhilaration of the great city that fascinated her. When she met Vivien Winthrop, a beautiful rich society girl with "horse sense," at her music teacher's. Invited to dinner, Lilith captivated Mr. Winthrop, as well as the young men, with her negro songs, while she revels in the luxury of the palatial surroundings. Bill Chester, heir to a huge fortune, and engaged to an heiress, asks her to the opera a week later. Lilith is entranced.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.

A WEEK later she asked Vivien and Bill and Mr. Dickinson to tea with her. A nuisance that the Deans would have to be included, but she must let these new acquaintances of hers know that she had suitable chaperonage. Tea was the only social gesture practicable for her under the circumstances, but she'd try to make it as attractive as she could. Ellen Dean had annexed a young man studying journalism at Columbia, a presentable and clever person, so he made an even number of young people.

The tea was a great success. Next time she'd contrive to have the Deans absent, now that they had been exhibited as guarantee of her respectability of background.

The Winthrops gave an Easter house party at their country place on Long Island, and Lilith was invited. The question of clothes gave her burning anxiety, but she collected enough to serve for the occasion by cleaning and pressing her best old ones and by picking up some crafty bargains in the shops. And anyway, she reasoned, it wouldn't be consistent for Cinderella to be too handsomely gowned. Her line was to be beauty and simplicity, and artless enjoyment of everything these rich philanthropists were offering. . . . and eyes wide open for the glass slipper that might appear at any moment. Her eyes were blue and clear behind their dark lashes, and they saw much.

Those eager eyes took in each detail of the house that seemed a palace to her. Her own bedroom was in lettuce green and orchid with French painted furniture and draperies in pastel shades, a perfect setting for a young girl, and just made to show off golden hair and peach-blossom skin. The bathroom of iridescent tiles, with delicate blue curtains and one exquisite water scene on the wall, with all the accessories that imagination could suggest, made a comic contrast in her mind with the one bathroom of the parsonage, cluttered up with soiled clothes, the children dropped (to be neat), the old tub rusted in spots, the floor sopping wet half the time, the walls splattered from the boys' energetic showers. Oh, it was beastly to be so poor you couldn't have beauty and ease in your daily life! Mother and Tina didn't seem to mind—or at least they didn't complain. But she had such longing for beauty that ugliness hurt her like a hair shirt.

Roger had money, compared to the parsonage standards. But now that she had glimpsed a life so different even from his, could she ever go back to what he could give her? Well, the year was still young. Maybe round the corner of some tomorrow the glass slipper might show up. . . . She arched her slender foot before her, admired its grace and smallness.

It was a big house party, chiefly of young people. Girls like a flock of chattering birds, gay of plumage, quick of motion, young men with sleek hair and boyish sophistication of manner, some handsome, but all looking as if they belonged to the leisured world of wealth. Since this was perhaps the pick of Vivien Winthrop's acquaintances they must all be worth while. Lilith reflected as she lightly studied them. She scanned each one with the watchful eagerness with which a young girl with a heart to let sees eligible young men, asking herself of them in turn, "Is he perhaps the one I've been waiting for? Can he give me romance and riches and love?"

A nobody from Texas was at such a disadvantage, with no chance to know the comparative bank accounts, the financial as well as social prospects. It was vulgar to think about money, much more so to speak of it, but a girl needed to know! What could she do? Well, keep her ears open for any slight hint which she might store in her memory as a squirrel tucks away nuts; be sure that she didn't put her eyes in her pocket.

She mustn't put herself forward in any way, mustn't antagonize these girls with rivalry; must be demure, appreciative, grateful—not too clever—not suggestive of danger to anyone else's plans. QUANTITY AND QUALITY OF AT-

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—With the fighters approaching the proverbial pink of condition and the gate receipts approaching $300,000, the coming engagement between Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey assumed the proportions of a major enterprise today.

Certainly the attendance will be of the quantity and quality which would have delighted the heart of Tex Rickard could he have lived to see how well this last venture of his has turned out.

Jack Sharkey spent some pleasant moments with a couple of bottles of beer last night. The Bostonian announced he would not work today, but would resume hard training tomorrow.

Young Stribling cancelled his scheduled boxing Thursday, and accordingly was due today for a stiff workout. The Georgian is down to 181 pounds, but faces the necessity of keeping on the go in order to be prepared properly for the fight.

Sharkey will have an advantage of at least ten pounds in weight.

The measurements of the contenders indicate that there is little advantage on either side except in the matter of weight.

This is how they are expected to shape up when they enter the ring:

	Sharkey	Stribling

UZCUDUN IS AN 8 TO 5 FAVORITE OVER CHRISTNER

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Pao-lino Uzcudun, rugged Basque heavyweight, today was an 8 to 5 favorite to defeat Meyers (K. O.) Christner, the "fistful marvel of the age," in their 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The 34-year-old Akron, O., rubber puffer, at the age when most fighters have retired, can establish himself in the front ranks of the heavyweight title contenders by a decisive victory over Pao-lino. The Basque has never defeated any of the foremost heavyweights but never has lost to any of them by a wide margin.

If Christner can swing his lethargic right to the point of Uzcudun's jaw, he will have sent himself far along the pugilistic pathway, at least in New York.

LEAVES WITH BUCKY HARRIS AND HIS SQUAD

BILL'S TUTOR IN THE BRAINERD
LEPINSKI

ZAKARIASEN MADE A GOOD RECORD AT CARLETON COLLEGE AND IN THREE-I LEAGUE

A Detroit telegram carried the information that Bucky Harris, and a contingent of the Detroit Tigers, whom he is to manage this year, were on their way to Phoenix, Ariz., for spring training.

Accompanying Harris on the first leg of the journey were Pitchers Haskell Billings, Owen Carroll, Phil Page, Fred Piggas and our own Bill Zakariassen, the latter loaned by Dallas for the training season, and Catchers Red Hargrave and Phillips.

Zakariassen's first phenomenal showing as a pitcher was in the Brainerd high school team, when Brainerd won the district championship in 1924. In Brainerd's City League play Floyd Lepinski, catcher, was his mentor. Later at Carleton Zakariassen showed his yards and he and Addington were recommended for trial to Cleveland and Detroit.

Bill is a right-hander, has speed to burn and has developed a curve which is most deceptive. Two years ago this summer he played for Dubuque, Iowa, then for Decatur in the Three-I League, and while in early spring training broke his ankle. He was turned out to Fort Smith, Ark. Now comes his chance with Detroit and his friends hope he makes good in the training and gets a regular berth.

GAME OF SEASON

KASCH HOPES FOR TWO PRACTICES AT IRONTON GYM BEFORE TOURNAMENT

A team of two regulars and six reserves will try their best to make a showing for their alma mater tonight when the Brainerd high school squad journeys to Aitkin tonight for the last district conference game of the season.

The odds will be against the locals but nevertheless there is hope that the ambitious reserves of the Brainerd high will pull the game out of the fire before the close of the battle.

Coach Kasch announced this morning he would take the following men to Aitkin: Hautala, Foster, E. Foster, Halverson, Hoffbauer, Schuety, Garvey and Goedderz.

After tonight's game Coach Kasch will concentrate on getting his men ready for the district tournament. The team will go to Ironton tomorrow morning when they will practice on the Ironton grade school gymnasium.

Arrangements are also being made for one practice next week on the Ironton gym before the team enters the tournament next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, opposing Wadena.

NEW YORK YANKEES FOLLOW
PETERSBURG

New York, Feb. 22.—(UP)—Eager to feel the warmth of a southern sun after witnessing a record snowfall in New York, the last of this city's delegations were ready today to invade the southern training camps.

The Brooklyn Dodgers leave tonight for Clearwater, Fla. The New York Yankees follow tomorrow evening, bound for St. Petersburg. John J. McGraw will depart tomorrow for San Antonio, Tex., to join his New York Giants who already are in camp.

The Brooklyn group will be a slim one, consisting of Coach Otto Miller, Jimmy Pattison, pitcher, and the baseball writers. The other Dodgers will leave their homes about the same time, however.

More of the Yankees are due to leave New York tomorrow, under the leadership of Mark Roth, secretary of the club. Included in the party will be Leo Burocher and Lou Gehrig, infielders; Fred Heimach and Roy Sherrid, pitchers and Catcher Benny Bengough.

At Philadelphia George Burns, another infielder, will join the group. A number of the players already are on their way south.

BASEBALL TEAMS EAGER TO GO TO TRAINING CAMPS

BROOKLYN DODGERS LEAVE TONIGHT FOR CLEARWATER, FLA.

NEW YORK YANKEES FOLLOW BOUND FOR ST. PETERSBURG

New York, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—Eager to feel the warmth of a southern sun after witnessing a record snowfall in New York, the last of this city's delegations were ready today to invade the southern training camps.

The Brooklyn Dodgers leave tonight for Clearwater, Fla. The New York Yankees follow tomorrow evening, bound for St. Petersburg. John J. McGraw will depart tomorrow for San Antonio, Tex., to join his New York Giants who already are in camp.

The Brooklyn group will be a slim one, consisting of Coach Otto Miller, Jimmy Pattison, pitcher, and the baseball writers. The other Dodgers will leave their homes about the same time, however.

More of the Yankees are due to leave New York tomorrow, under the leadership of Mark Roth, secretary of the club. Included in the party will be Leo Burocher and Lou Gehrig, infielders; Fred Heilmach and Roy Sherrill, pitchers and Catcher Benny Bengough.

At Philadelphia George Burns, another infielder, will join the group. A number of the players already are on their way south.

While most of the midwest is shivering in the cold, this group of Chicago Cubs is off for Catalina Island, Calif., where the first Spring baseball training will give assurance that "it won't be long now." "Gabby" Hartnett, at extreme right of platform, and Mrs. Hartnett, left of "Gabby," are on their honeymoon.

ROTARY OBSERVES FOUNDERS DAY

Program in Charge of Past President Dr. R. A. Beise, Assisted by Rev. N. P. Olmsted

Board of Directors Asks Fellowship Committee to "Put On" Party Soon

The Rotary club observed Founders Day last Tuesday and the program was in charge of Past President Dr. R. A. Beise, assisted by Rev. N. P. Olmsted. Their discourses proved instructive and they covered the early movements of Rotary when but a few clubs belonged, and traced it until its present growth reveals Rotary securely entrenched in 44 countries.

An invitation was read from Duluth club asking Brainerd to attend February 21 when Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, was to be an honor guest of their club.

The board of directors asked the fellowship committee to "put on" a party and the request will be complied with.

A resolution on the theatre situation was adopted after a few changes had been made in the phraseology.

J. P. Anderson reported on the district convention at Minot, N. D., to be held April 15 and 16, and told of the special Great Northern train passing through St. Cloud to the convention town.

Supt. W. C. Cobb announced the Rotary prizes awarded contestants in the declamation contest conducted by the high school.

Visitors included Rotarians F. N. Russell and C. H. Russell of Superior, Wis., Joseph Myre of Duluth, guest of S. R. Hickerson, and Ralph E. Farrand guest of R. R. Gould.

FASTED 40 DAYS TO 'DISPOSSESS HIS FATHER OF DEVIL'

New Hampshire, O., Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—Fred Conrad, New Hampshire's 27 year old religious "martyr," who fasted for 40 days in a campaign to "dispossess his father of the devil," ended his self-imposed abstinence today without attaining his objective.

The former traction depot agent, whose 200 pounds has shrunk to 140 pounds, relinquished the battle to his father, George, a grocer, and partook of a light meal consisting of raw eggs, a glass of milk and a cup of diluted beef-broth.

Despite his son's fast the elder Conrad refused "to see the error of his ways" and join the church.

FUTURE GOOD OFFICES OF THE U. S. MAY BE NECESSARY TO SETTLE IT

Lima, Peru, Feb. 22.—(U.P.)—The future good offices of the United States may be necessary to clinch definitely a statement of the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru. It was believed today.

AMUSEMENTS WILL BE SUBJECT TONIGHT

Discussed by Rev. Edgar Swanson at the Swedish Bethany
Church

Last night Rev. Edgar E. Swanson spoke to a good sized audience on "The Two Last of the Four Last Things," and during his discourse it was revealed to the hearers that those two last things are Hell and Heaven, the eternal abode of the two groups of mankind. A strong spirit was prevailing and several young people came forward for prayer.

Tonight Rev. Swanson will speak on a timely and popular subject, namely "The Christian and Modern Amusement." Mr. Swanson will base his message squarely on the Bible and expects to state his convictions without mincing his words.
He will be pleased to have a crowded house and especially should the Christians come so that they might know what the Bible teaches on this subject.

The service begins promptly at

SHIFTING WINDS BLOCKING HIGHWAYS

Shifting winds blocked nearly all the highways both in southeastern and southwestern Minnesota Wednesday and Thursday, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the State Highway department today. Many routes which had been opened by the snow plows yesterday morning were blocked again during the day. If the wind abates the department hopes to have most of the routes open today, but there is much loose snow in all parts of the state and even moderate winds will quickly block some of the routes.
Motorists are warned not to undertake long trips, unless they are prepared for some delays. Highways in the central and northern parts of the state are reported open, with a few exceptions, and generally good.

Roads in Brainerd Lake Region are as follows:

T. H. No. 2 — Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—250 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Hawley, paved—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca and Brainerd—103 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—62 miles—Paved.

"Abie's Irish Rose" Making Big Hit at Lyceum

The film version of the most successful play ever written is being screened in this city at the Lyceum in 12 reels.

Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose," great and poignant story that it is,
is scoring a tremendous success, even greater, possibly, than the original play itself.

'Mr. Speaker, I Second the Nomination--$1,000 Please'

What's this? Another oil scandal? Money being exchanged?
Be still beating heart, that's just nonsense conversation these days. For everybody's playing the great new game of "President Hoover and His Cabinet."

The Chicago Herald and Examiner sponsors this new $2,500 prize contest in the special Sunday edition every week.

The brightest part about it all is your chance to win a grand prize of $1,000. Or maybe the second prize of $500, the third of $250. Or anyway the fourth and fifth at $100 and $50 each. And of course for those who are too mature to be that optimistic, there are 60 prizes of $10 each. No sum to be sneezed at either.

Is it difficult? Not at all. All you have to do is to reassemble the faces of well-known men who are logical candidates for cabinet positions. Their pictures are given for your guidance. You name the candidate you have cut out and tell what office he would best fill.

CITY CELEBRATES IN PATRIOTIC STYLE

Schools, Banks, Post Office and Many Offices Declare a Holiday

TWO PROGRAMS BOOKED

Masons Hold Banquet, Program and Dance; Luther League
Has Program

Braierd was observing Washington's birthday today in typical patriotic style with flags flying and a feeling of democracy in the air.

Students in Braierd schools were given a holiday while the banks, post office, and majority of county offices were closed.

Preliminary to tonight's banquet and entertainment Aurora Lodge No. 100 conferred the Third Degree on three candidates this afternoon in the Masonic hall, the work being exemplified by Past Masters of the lodge.

At 6:15 p. m. a banquet will be served by the Eastern Star followed by an elaborate program at 8:15 p. m.

The address of the evening will be given by Bishop G. G. Bennett of Duluth. The program will include selections by the Musical Pirates of Little Falls, classical and popular music by the "Optimist Trio" and Henry Gordien, magician and illusionist.

The program will be followed by dancing for which music will be furnished by the "Musical Pirates."

The Young People's Luther League of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church, assisted by the Swedish Glee club will present a patriotic, musical and literary program at the church starting at 8 p. m. today.

Following the program in the church auditorium, refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed in the social rooms of the church.

AMUSEMENTS WILL BE SUBJECT TONIGHT

Church

Last night Rev. Edgar E. Swanson spoke to a good sized audience on "The Two Last of the Four Last Things," and during his discourse it was revealed to the hearers that those two last things are Hell and Heaven, the eternal abode of the two groups of mankind. A strong spirit was prevailing and several young people came forward for prayer.

Tonight Rev. Swanson will speak on a timely and popular subject, namely "The Christian and Modern Amusement." Mr. Swanson will base his message squarely on the Bible and expects to state his convictions without mincing his words. He will be pleased to have a crowded house and especially should the Christians come so that they might know what the Bible teaches on this subject.

The service begins promptly at 7:45 o'clock and all are cordially invited.

SHIFTING WINDS BLOCKING HIGHWAYS

Shifting winds blocked nearly all the highways both in southeastern and southwestern Minnesota Wednesday and Thursday, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the State Highway department today. Many routes which had been opened by the snow plows yesterday morning were blocked again during the day. If the wind abates the department hopes to have most of the routes open today, but there is much loose snow in all parts of the state and even moderate winds will quickly block some of the routes. Motorists are warned not to undertake long trips unless they are prepared for some delays. Highways in the central and northern parts of the state are reported open, with a few exceptions, and generally good.

A NEW ALL-AMERICAN SIX BY OAKLAND

Scout Broadcaster Gives Area News

Washington's birthday will be a school holiday. A fine day to take a hike. It is on Friday and you fellows can get out and do some real scout work. Tracking, trailing, fire-making. Take your toboggans and skis and have some winter sports games. Make it count in your advancement for February. While you may be camped during the dinner hour, have some scout tell some interesting phase of the life of Washington, so that you may get an idea of what February 22 really means to the people of the United States and to the Boy Scouts.

Troop Reports

January showed us how valuable the new troop reports will be both to the troop and to headquarters. We had a 50 per cent return on them and this no doubt will increase during this month, and by the end of February every scoutmaster should see that his troop report has been sent to Area Headquarters.

Congratulations Scouts

You fellows all over the Area have done a splendid lot of Scouting during anniversary week. You are to be congratulated and complimented on the way you have turned out and the spirit you have shown, and we can even make it better. Three big Courts of Honor were well attended by parents and friends. The Brainerd mobilization was a success, outdoor sports drew a good crowd, and Scout exhibits in many area towns all contributed their share in making it a successful birthday week.

Advancement Month

During March every troop ought to endeavor to have every boy advance a rank. Wonder what troop in the area can accomplish this as it is no easy task, if done properly. Now is the time to make your plans, you troop officers and P. L.'s, get together and work your plans out, with the meeting, hikes, M. B. exams and instructional Scouting to put over the job in a real manner. Every troop in the area on its toes for "advancement month" during March. Let's Go!

Area Troop News

Troop 61, St. Cloud Sea Scouts got away from anchorage last Monday evening and we hope they do not have too stormy a voyage.

Troop 49, Staples, have 31 Scouts in the Boys' band, while troop 50 have also quite a few. Believe us Scouts that's some band. These fellows are coming down to St. Cloud sometime. Several Scouts from the north district will be here for swim tests on February 23.

Troop 9, St. Cloud put on quite a skating party last Sunday afternoon at Lake George. They did not tell us whether they invited the fair sex or not.

Troop 53 at Hill City has a state forest ranger for their scoutmaster. H. S. Johnson should be able to make a real bunch of outdoor Scouts and foresters out of his boys.

Troop 50 of Staples have a bunch of go-getters in their troop. They are led by Scoutmaster Kenneth Lein who at the present is a Life Scout and is setting the pace for his boys to become an Eagle Scout.

Troop 12 of Becker are sure on the jump. They took a flock of merit badges last Monday at the Court of Honor and are planning other big things.

Troop 14 of Paynesville came a long way to attend the Court of Honor last Monday evening. It was fine to see so many of them here. Allen and Bill are sure doing a good job with the boys out there.

Troop 11, St. Cloud. Yet those fellows even had to get out and win their own Court of Honor trophy for the first time it was awarded. Wasn't that hot? Well it will help to boost Court of Honor attendance.

Listen to This

Had a fine letter from Eagle Scout Johnny Harrison yesterday. He says he is 6 feet tall in his socks and weighs 160 pounds, has won letters in football and basketball and is still a registered Scout. We always thought Johnny would make good as a Scout and we know he has. He lives in a great country for Scouting, mountains, rivers, and plenty of the big outdoors to put over a good Scout program. He was also Senior Patrol Leader at the Yellowstone Valley Camp last year. He also says he expects to work in Yellowstone Park next summer.

Scoutmasters Campfire Club

The Campfire club of the St. Cloud district scoutmasters will have their monthly meeting at the home of Skipper Jack Welch at the Grand Central hotel on Wednesday evening, February 20 at 8 o'clock. We hope every scoutmaster, Asst. S. M. and Junior Asst. and commissioners can be present. Let us make Scouting better in St. Cloud.

First Camper Registered

There's one Scout in this area who is not going to miss camp. He marched into headquarters yesterday afternoon and registered for Camp Nawaka starting July 7 for two weeks. Now the list is started, the

Area Troop News

Troop No. 44 (4) of Brainerd won the first place streamer for having the best window display in the northern district of the area, during anniversary week. We congratulate troop 44 upon their achievement. Troop 45 of Brainerd took second place while troop 46 of Brainerd placed third. The Brainerd district is to be congratulated upon winning all three places in the contest. Honorable mention should be given troop 22 of Crosby, troop 49 of Staples and troop 52 of Aitkin. The winning troops will be awarded their streamers at the April Court of Honor at Brainerd.

Troop 22 of Crosby have turned in their troop charter application with a splendid record for the past year's work. We expect the troop to do better work for the year 1929.

A new troop is being organized in Jenkins, Minn., with Jack Curo as the scoutmaster. We expect great things from the new Jenkins troop. New troops are being organized at Menasha and Isle, Minn., also. We wish them all real scouting success.

Troop 44 of Brainerd claim that they are going to make a good attempt to take that pennant from Northeast Brainerd. However several other troops have something to say about that too. Let's see who can do it.

The next Court of Honor will take place in Brainerd the second Sunday in April, April 14, at the Methodist church, 4 P. M. Each troop should remember that March is designated as Advancement month and we are looking for great things from each troop and each Scout.

Knights of Columbus troop 47 of Brainerd had a splendid bean supper for the Scouts last week. Assistant Executive S. C. Bakken was present and gave the boys a talk on Scouting achievements. We look for real advancement from troop 47.

Troops in the northern district of the area will oblige us very much if they will acquaint Scout headquarters with troop news so that we can print it in the Scout Broadcaster that will appear in the Dispatch. Let's get in that news.

Honorable mention should be given troop 22 of Crosby, troop 49 of Staples and troop 52 of Aitkin. The winning troops will be awarded their streamers at the April Court of Honor at Brainerd.

Troop 22 of Crosby have turned in their troop charter application with a splendid record for the past year's work. We expect the troop to do better work for the year 1929.

A new troop is being organized in Jenkins, Minn., with Jack Curo as the scoutmaster. We expect great things from the new Jenkins troop. New troops are being organized at Menasha and Isle, Minn., also. We wish them all real scouting success.

Troop 44 of Brainerd claim that they are going to make a good attempt to take that pennant from Northeast Brainerd. However several other troops have something to say about that too. Let's see who can do it.

The next Court of Honor will take place in Brainerd the second Sunday in April, April 14, at the Methodist church, 4 P. M. Each troop should remember that March is designated as Advancement month and we are looking for great things from each troop and each Scout.

pool Saturday, February 23. We like to see Scouts get ahead even though we have no pool at Brainerd. Lions club troop 46 were industriously working on a flock of bird houses at their troop meeting last week. Good work.

Knights of Columbus troop 47 of Brainerd had a splendid bean supper for the Scouts last week. Assistant Executive S. C. Bakken was present and gave the boys a talk on Scouting achievements. We look for real advancement from troop 47.

Troops in the northern district of the area will oblige us very much if they will acquaint Scout headquarters with troop news so that we can print it in the Scout Broadcaster that will appear in the Dispatch. Let's get in that news.

South Africa's Day
December 16 in South Africa is Dingaan's day and is a day of thanksgiving among the Boers. Dingaan was the king of the Zulus and it was on December 16, 1838, that he and his warriors were put to rout after several bloody battles.

Chrysanthemum Growth
The United States Department of Agriculture says that by selecting proper strains it is possible to grow chrysanthemums in almost all the states except the extreme North and the hot, windswept sections of the great plains.
